Business Applications Lead

September 2022

The company

RealVNC® is a highly successful software company based in Cambridge (UK) city centre. As the original developers of VNC® remote access technology our software is used by hundreds of millions of users worldwide from the non-technical home user to IT professionals from global companies, such as Intel, IBM, NASA, Shell, DreamWorks and Philips.

Following private equity investment from London-based investment firm Livingbridge in August 2021, we are now entering the next chapter in our growth journey and are looking to expand our Business Applications team.

The role

The Business Applications team at RealVNC is responsible for the design, development, and ongoing management of our sales and e-commerce systems. This role includes hands-on software development and team leadership/line management for a small team of highly skilled software engineers. You'll be responsible for scheduling and managing the team's work, mentoring, working with key stakeholders across the business as required and steering the direction of the team.

You

- Come from a software engineering background with proven experience of application development supporting e-commerce systems, ideally with experience of SaaS and subscription management
- Have knowledge and demonstrable experience of at least two of: C# ASP.Net, Java, Salesforce Apex, Python. Other programming languages and frameworks are highly desirable
- Have a desire to expand your skillset to other technologies as required
- Are experienced with CI workflows
- Contribute across the entire development lifecycle (analysis, design, implementation, testing, release, and production support)
- Experience of developing services running on public cloud services (AWS / Azure) is desirable
- Can estimate, prioritise and track workloads for you and your team, managing the needs of various stakeholders and keeping them up to date appropriately

- Have a "can do" attitude and thrive on working in a fast-paced environment
- Can bring out the best in people, and can develop them to achieve even more
- Can explain technical concepts to a non-technical audience
- Have excellent oral and written communication skills
- Have a good technical degree (or equivalent qualification / experience)

Benefits

This role offers a unique opportunity to join our Business Applications Team, working for a successful, growing company with a recognised global brand and huge potential and vision. If you're successful, you'll be compensated with an attractive package which will be appropriate to your skills and experience. We also offer generous benefits, including a contributory pension, EV car leasing scheme, private dental and medical cover and maternity package.

We understand that people work differently, so our employees can work flexibly around our core hours, and we expect some flexibility in return. We have introduced a hybrid work environment where employees combine working remotely and working from the office. You will therefore need to be able to commute to our Cambridge office for meetings as required.

How to apply
